

Porn: Only A Click Away

Are parents who check the records of their child's electronic usage failing to trust their child or downright simply loving?

Some will contest the right of parents to watch their child's activities through the electronic media.

Overprotective or Smart?

Should a spouse be concerned when the partner stays up at night "browsing?"

When does "viewing" become an addiction?

Can the addiction be controlled simply by turning the computer off?

The reality: At a certain time there is no difference between confronting a teen or adult concerning a pornography addiction.

No Children will be permitted to attend.

There is no cost and no RSVP required to attend. Wednesday's session will be a repeat of Monday evening.

Two Evenings Held at St. John the Baptist Church

Monday, Jan. 16
and
Wednesday, Jan. 18
7:00-9:00PM
in the Annex

Choose a Night One Topic

Learning a game plan and developing a strategy to eradicate pornography from the lives of the ones we love.

These evenings are for all adults concerned for their children, grandchildren, friends, and family members, or, perhaps, even for themselves. No questions will be asked as to why a person chooses to attend. Not important. What is important is the understanding of, and growing beyond this societal epidemic that scars life emotionally, spiritually, and physically.

There are ways to help family members regain their self-dignity and hold in esteem the sacredness of the human body. It all starts with awareness, and requires vigilance.

Some in our society would suggest that the viewing of pornography is quite natural and healthy. They also contend that man wasn't meant for marriage. Does that say something about their belief in God? Does it say anything about pornography as a moral issue that lessens the ability of a person to see his or her true identity and self-worth?
